

FEEDBACK FROM PEOPLE WITH HAEMOPHILIA REQUIRED FOR RESEARCH PROJECT

If you would like to help make haemophilia questionnaires more suitable to Australians, then you might be interested in this research project!

As part of a linguistic validation project, researchers are keen to speak to 5 Australian adults and 5 Australian children/adolescents (ages 12-17) living with haemophilia. Parental consent is required for children to be able to participate. Parents are invited to attend the call.

What is Linguistic Validation?

A linguistic validation project is used to help test the understanding of questionnaires before they are shared with a larger group of respondents.

Participants will have the opportunity to provide valuable feedback to help improve the accuracy and relevance of questionnaires that are to be used as part of a wider project.

Participants will not be asked to answer the questions but instead provide feedback on the questions that are asked and whether they can fully understand what the question is asking. All feedback is confidential and anonymised.

In order to take part in this project, participants must be from Australia.

When?

Ideally, researchers would like to speak to participants before the 31st May 2024 via MS Teams (No download required).

Payment

Participants are compensated $90 for approximately 90 minutes of their time.
