

SEEKING FEEDBACK FROM 2 BOYS LIVING WITH HAEMOPHILIA FOR RESEARCH PROJECT

If you think your child would like to help make haemophilia questionnaires more suitable to Australians, then please read on!

Researchers would like to speak to 2 Australian boys (ages 12-17) living with haemophilia as part of a linguistic validation project. Parental consent is needed, and parents are invited to attend the MS Teams call [no download required].

What is Linguistic Validation?

Linguistic validation ensures that questionnaires are clear and accurate before they are shared with a wider group of people.

Participants will not be asked to answer the questions but instead provide feedback on the questions that are asked and whether they can fully understand what the question is asking. All feedback is confidential and anonymised.

The valuable feedback participants provide helps improve the accuracy and relevance of the questionnaires that are to be used as part of a wider project.

In order to take part in this project, participants must be from Australia.

Payment

Participants are compensated $90 for approximately 90 minutes of their time.

Learn more about participating in this research project by emailing: cathal@connectwithlanguage.com